FRESHEST GLEANINGS

[illegible]

[illegible] the Sultan and Mr. [illegible]

London is soon to be treated with the details of a great financial scandal involving [illegible] the unfortunate shareholders of the Imperial [illegible] Company of Marseilles [illegible] nearly four millions of [illegible] the time of the case is given.

At a dinner given by Andrew Johnson to the members of the Tennessee Legislature [illegible] Nashville [illegible] intrepid dignity and unquestioned patriotism [illegible] the illustrious [illegible] present kept silent and devoured what was set before them.

Wise men are troubling themselves to account for the fresh water which comes up through an iron tube sunk fifteen feet through the constantly shifting sands of Cape Cod from sixteen to twenty feet from high water, and not more than three feet above it. The water in this tube rises and falls regularly with the tide yet more than 100 barrels have been pumped from it at one time without finding the slightest trace of saline matter. It is of such fine quality that vessels supply themselves for a sea voyage from the well.

In producing the precious metals the American nation has attained a proud preeminence. Although the fact is not particularly [illegible] our circulation, we produce more of the precious metals than any other country. The United States supplies annually about $[illegible],000,000 of gold. In silver our product is $[illegible],000,000 or about one third of all the annual supply of the world, and yet this business is merely in its infancy. What it will be at the end of the present century it is almost impossible to estimate.

Next year will be the centenary of Universalism in America. The churches throughout the country are organizing for a great work during that year. It is proposed to raise not less than one million dollars for the uses of the denomination, of which two hundred thousand dollars is to constitute a permanent fund to be known as the Murray Memorial, in honor of the first preacher of that faith in America. At the recent meeting held at the Rev. Dr. Chapin's Church in New York the sum of $25,000 was secured for the centenary fund.

The "Almana" is the name of a peculiar settlement near Marengo, in Iowa. The colony consists of a succession of small villages seven in number, lying along the Iowa river below Marengo. It was organized in 1855 and now contains about 1,300 inhabitants. The colony owns 26,000 acres of land. The first village settled, called Almana, is much the largest, and is a town of 400 inhabitants. It is the parent of all others, and the principal officers reside and carry on the operations of the colony here. The colony is conducted on the principle of having all things in common. They are a religious sect and all who join them must conform to their views. They are all Germans.

Orange Judd, publisher of the American Agriculturist, has recently given $50,000 to the Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. for the purpose of building a scientific hall. The building is designed to be a memorial to his son, who died last spring. Though only twelve years of age, he had travelled all over the continent, visited every European capital, was a fine musician, an excellent draughtsman, and conversant with the Greek, Latin and French languages. He was ready to enter the second or third term, sophomore year, and was eagerly looking forward to the day when he should leave for the college at Middletown. Mr. Judd was almost inconsolable at the loss of his son. In erecting as a monument to his memory a scientific hall he has taken a most noble way for at the same time expressing and assuaging his grief.

It is stated that during the trial of the editors of the Utah Magazine the defendants asked whether it was apostasy to differ honestly from Brigham Young. One of the elders of the tribunal replied emphatically in the affirmative and said, "A man may be honest even in hell," and another, the vice president of the church, said,—"You might as well ask whether a man has the right to differ honestly with the Almighty." A fact which threatens the Mormons even more seriously than the "one railroad," of which their chief speaks contemptuously, is the circumstance, which perhaps it would be treason to hint at Salt Lake, that Brigham Young is not immortal. When he dies, it is hardly possible that the enthusiasm in faith and trust of his followers will concentrate upon another, and if not, Mormonism will tumble to pieces without much outside interference.

The New York Times says: It was one of the peculiarities of Mr. Peabody that he never would have a house of his own. He cared little for himself in all things—it was his habit, for instance, to dine off a mutton chop at the grand dinners he used to give where every luxury was spread upon the table. He had a room in the house of his old friend Sir Curtis M. Lampson in Eaton [illegible] and it was there that he died. He used to live there in the most quiet and retired manner, and his name did not appear in any directory or "Court Guide." He has suffered much during the last four years, and could very seldom be induced to call in a doctor when he [illegible] beyond the doctor's [illegible]. As one of his physicians explained a short time ago, Mr. Peabody was a [illegible] patient. He hated to be asked after his health or to have any fuss made over him. It was his often expressed wish during his lifetime that he should be buried at Danvers, Massachusetts.

The New Orleans Commercial Bulletin is disposed to speak discouragingly of the introduction of manufacturing enterprise in the South. The theory is that while the situation remains as it is, with a demand for cotton beyond the supply, and with increasing facilities of transportation, the production of cotton must necessarily be more attractive to capital than the manufacture of it in the cotton region. If capital at [illegible] were turned from planting to manufacturing, it would make the demand over the supply still more excessive, and the increased price of the raw material would leave a still less margin of profit [illegible] capital required for working [illegible] The remedy [illegible] be found in an improved system of labor capable of developing [illegible] the resources of that region [illegible] and of gathering and marketing [illegible] proper [illegible] and the [illegible] difficulties which now seem so appalling would [illegible]

A fellow named [illegible], residing in New York, taking advantage [illegible] years allows a husband to murder a man who [illegible] he may [illegible] his wife and her alleged paramour [illegible] After [illegible] held up [illegible] written confession [illegible] also [illegible] that his story was improbable [illegible] will have to [illegible] from his pedestal [illegible] that matter [illegible] summating his end.

[illegible]

[illegible] who was killed by the upsetting [illegible]

The Jacksonville [illegible] years of age [illegible] Josephine county a few days since. His name was William Wakeman. He was endeavoring to cross the river on horseback when the accident happened. His body had not up to latest [illegible] been recovered.

The Herald [illegible] the following [illegible] a Radical jury convict a Radical so undreland under any circumstances. The Herald would [illegible] address Sheriff Myers of Clackamas county and [illegible] juries there in this spirit [illegible] jury. No doubt they will answer that a Democratic jury in that county will convict a Democratic scoundrel under any circumstances."

An Albany dispatch of the 25th gives the following: Drs. Plummer, Tate and Kiely, successfully removed an adipose tumor of nineteen years' growth and weighing eleven ounces from the arm of Mrs. J. F. Backenstos to-day.

The Willamette river which, on Saturday was beyond its banks is receding very fast, but the prospects for more rain are good. Steamboats make quick trips as far up as Eugene City and freighting is very lively.

A Democratic organ near us is greatly scandalized because Gov. Bross, in one of his letters to the Chicago Tribune, describes a portion of the Oregon Democracy as "ignorant Pikes," whose principal occupations are hunting, fishing, loafing about corner groceries, drinking bad whisky, and cursing the "Black Republican party." This description,—and Bross applied it only to a well known class whom it precisely fits,—shows the accuracy of the writer's observations. We have no idea that he had the editor of the organ alluded to particularly in mind when he was writing, for the said editor is of too little consequence to be so remembered, therefore he needn't "get mad" about it.

The Statesman has the following: "The Polk county term of circuit court concluded last week, without the conviction of any person indicted in connection with the death of Jenny Boyce. Cochran, with whom the girl lived, after being imprisoned all summer was discharged by the action of the grand jury, as no bill was found against him. He was made a witness for the State against Mrs. Fender, the mother of the deceased girl, against whom an indictment was found. Mrs. Fender was tried and acquitted. Fender, the step father of Jenny Boyce, was examined last spring, but not bound over, and immediately after he disappeared and has not been heard of since." There is no doubt but in this case a great crime was committed, but it goes unpunished.

Household Saints

The following exquisite little sketch from the graceful pen of Grace Greenwood was published in Hearth and Home for November 6th:

Philip Otis was well born, handsome, witty and eloquent. He early loved and married a young lady of much beauty and many accomplishments.

All went well with the "happy pair" on their bridal tour till one fatal day when they took passage on a certain famous railway, then just opened—a railway with a broad gauge, and everything on a broad scale, especially casualties.

On this day there was the usual accident. Philip Otis escaped with slight injuries—an arm and a rib or two broken—but his Alice was fearfully hurt, disabled for life by an injury to the spine. When she was able to be conveyed to her beautiful home on the Hudson, it was on a couch of pain, and looking more like one wasted by long sickness and about to die, than like the bride of one short month. She never left that house again, and she lived many weary, hopeless years. In all that time she was only lifted from one couch to be laid upon another. In all that time she was never for one day or night quite free from pain. There were many dark hours, especially during the first years of her trial, when her womanly fortitude and her sweet temper, even her loving faith in God failed her and she was petulant, exacting, unreasonable, and rebellious. But in all that sad time Philip, her husband, was gentle, patient, pitiful and loving. Whatever the cares and perplexities of business, he nobly cast them from him as he approached her, in whose shadowed and defeated life pain and sorrow were doing their slow work of sanctification. Whatever temptations and evil influences might approach him, with taint and soil, and dark allurements, he shook himself free of them at the threshold of that chamber and brought to the bedside only pure thoughts and clear looks. He sought to surround that suffering, waning life with all grace and softness, and beauty. It was ministered to by pleasant service and skillful nursing, cheered by bright companionship, and soothed by carefully guarded repose.

Exquisite taste reigned in this chamber. Carpet and hangings were of delicate colors, choice pictures brightened the walls, all articles of furniture and ornament were of dainty classic shapes. Roses and woodbine were trained up to the windows and never a day in all the year was the little stand at the head of poor Alice's couch without its fresh bouquet of fragrant flowers. Here Philip brought the choicest new books and periodicals; here he related the last good story, and the spiciest bit of literary, political or social gossip.

In the charmed air of this chamber even the Irish servant maid did her [illegible] gently. Not a wave of the great flood [illegible] was allowed to break rudely in upon it; no domestic [illegible] ever reached it.

One still night in early summer, when the [illegible] light shimmered on the river, and the breath of [illegible] filled the air, Alice [illegible] raised [illegible] her [illegible] holding [illegible] his face, and dying.

"Your trial is drawing to a close, dear," she said. "At first I used to pray that it might be shortened. Now I thank God that He has allowed me to live so long to be a witness to your goodness and devotion. I have often been trying, childish and perverse, but you have been a good husband always, and good husbands nowadays, I have heard, are rarer than saints used to be. You were fast becoming my saint and perhaps I am to be taken now lest I should worship you too utterly."

"Alice, Alice," sobbed [illegible] "you have [illegible] my angel [illegible] Heaven when I lose you."

"No, dear [illegible] You will [illegible] this poor shattered shell of me. My [illegible] blessing will stay with you always, Philip [illegible] I [illegible] for your [illegible] these years of suffering I will not say I am sorry [illegible] I thank you for your [illegible]"

That was the last [illegible] said to her husband, but the [illegible] light shone a little longer in her eyes [illegible] failed out, and [illegible] their white lids into the [illegible] once.

[illegible] A writer in the [illegible] thus describes the late Mr. [illegible] the richest peer in England. The writer well remembers one [illegible] afternoon some two or three years ago, when strolling [illegible] beyond the walls of [illegible] the appearance of a tall venerable looking individual [illegible] along the road. His white hair [illegible] behind his ears, his back bent with age and infirmity [illegible] which he seemed to have been [illegible] the modern fashion, beneath which dangled an old style watch chain and seal [illegible] suggest the thought of its having something to do with his bowed attitude, all this added to a pair of thick-soled shoes that had apparently never known blacking and a knotted club [illegible] dragged after him made up the tout ensemble of the British [illegible]

New York Aristocrats

[illegible]

[From the New York Sun Nov. [illegible]]

The Sun has already chronicled the blow given Mr. Lawrence in the Manhattan Club, by Mr. Fellows, the nephew and law partner of the Hon. Augustus Schell. Mr. Lawrence, who was in a [illegible] drifted through the splendid rooms of the club pouring out a shower of expletives against Mr. Schell to the annoyance of some [illegible] other members. At length he ran against Mr. Fellows who was quietly seated on a sofa. Shaking his fist in Mr. Fellows' face Mr. Lawrence [illegible] upon Mr. Schell [illegible]

Mr. Fellows [illegible] from his seat and slapped the face of Mr. Lawrence, who made an ineffectual attempt to counter on Mr. Fellows' proboscis. Friends intervened and the gentleman who had been punched in the nose was induced to vent his indignation against Mr. Schell elsewhere. He was unacquainted with Mr. Fellows. Asking a friend whether the person who had struck him was not the Hon. Ben. Wood he was answered "Yes." Thereupon Mr. Lawrence determined to ask gentlemanly satisfaction for the insult offered him.

Filled with champagne and chivalric determination he called upon the veteran Col. Monroe at the Union Club, Fifth avenue and Thirty-first street, related the circumstances of the assault, said that he had resolved to challenge Ben. Wood for the insult, and asked Col. Monroe to officiate as his second. The gentlemanly Colonel, with a cavalier's courtesy, declined to act. Some other messenger must be found. Away went Lawrence looking for another man of honor. Some kind friend sent him to a well known Captain of Marines who was considered the very pink of perfection in affairs of honor. The Captain heard the story, sprang to his feet, rubbed his hands together in joy, and accepted the duties of second.

The Hon. Benjamin Wood sat in the office of the Daily News, writing rapidly and smoking like a locomotive. It was in the early part of the afternoon. His face was, as usual, destitute of color. His glittering eyes were fastened upon his manuscript. Suddenly the door opened, and a dashing Captain of Marines entered.

"Have I the pleasure of addressing the Hon. Benjamin Wood?" said he bowing.

"I am Mr. Wood," said the Hon. Ben., turning about in his chair.

"Then I have an important communication to deliver to you, sir," said the Captain, bowing again, and handing the Hon. Ben. the letter.

Then folding his arms, he stood awaiting Mr. Wood's pleasure.

Mr. Wood read the letter carefully, and then blew a small cloud of tobacco smoke over it. Casting his keen eyes at the epauletted captain, he said:

"Is this man crazy that he sends me an invitation to fight a duel? I don't know the fellow. I never saw him to my knowledge. I have no objection to fighting a duel with him if it will accommodate him, provided the formality of an introduction is dispensed with. Who is he, and where is he?"

The Captain was dumbfounded. He explained Mr. Lawrence's story to Benjamin, who puffed away at his cigar. Mr. Wood said that he had not visited the Manhattan Club since his friend Tweed had been blackballed, some months ago. The Captain then apologized, expressed his regret at what had happened, and assured Mr. Wood that he would [illegible] his friend Lawrence that there was some mistake.

Back went the Captain slightly vexed. He met Lawrence, who was pacing his apartment with nervous anxiety. Before the Captain could speak, Lawrence said:

"Of course, he'll fight. I've just sent for a lawyer to draw up my will. We'll fight with pistols and ——"

"D—n it," broke in the Captain, "you've woke up the wrong man. Ben will fight, if you insist upon it. But what's the use? He says he hasn't been to the Manhattan Club in over a year, and I'm satisfied that you're mistaken. It must have been somebody else that hit you. In fact a man who saw the muss, tells me that it was a nephew of Gus. Schell's that hit you. His name is Fellows."

"The devil you say?" retorted Lawrence. "Well, all I've got to say is that Fellows 'ill have to pay for that job."

"You going to challenge him?" [illegible] the Captain.

"Of course not," replied Lawrence. "Think I'm a fool? He ain't worth fighting. I'm going to make a charge against him for assault and battery."

"Then you don't want my services any longer," the Captain said.

"I do not," answered Lawrence. "[illegible] I can only say that you've made a friend of [illegible] for life. Have a glass of champagne, Captain?"

The Captain took it. The friends clinked glasses and separated. Mr. Fellows was arrested for assault and battery on the [illegible] of Mr. Lawrence, gave bail, and is looking for Lawrence again.

VALLANDIGHAM ON THE POLITICAL ISSUES OF TO-DAY.—The Columbus (Ohio) correspondent of the Washington Chronicle gives the following copy of a note received by him from Hon. C. L. Vallandigham:

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 11, 1869.

My Dear Sir—Your polite note of this evening I have this moment received.

I would with pleasure confer with you briefly, as you request, but for an imperative engagement which requires my immediate attention, and during the residue of the evening. Besides, in truth I could give you little satisfaction in regard to political affairs in this State or elsewhere at the present time, as I have concerned myself but little with them for a year past. I doubt whether a single accepted issue of the day will, at least in its present shape, constitute any part of the subjects of discussion in 1872. It is evident, too, that the position of public men and of leading newspapers will by that time, be greatly changed. As to the election to-morrow, defeat of the Democratic party will signify nothing, because for seven years or longer, it has been steady [illegible] success will be significant [illegible] and especially as indicating the future political status of the Northwest. It may not mean that the Great American Revolution of 1861 shall go backward, but it will mean that it has spent its force as a revolution, and, except in its more remote influences, is to go no longer forward.

This hastily in reference to your suggestions.

Very truly, &c.,
C. L. VALLANDIGHAM

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 26, 1869.

Wholesome Advice.

The New York World recently published an article with a view of preparing its party for the new condition of things under the Fifteenth Amendment, which it perceives is now on the verge of full ratification. In fact the World has set itself at the task of persuading its party to accept the only course that can save it from speedy dissolution. That paper frankly tells Democrats that "in continuing a fruitless opposition they would display not manly firmness, but womanish pertinacity." "If," says the World, "we cannot get the support of one-fourth of the States to keep negro suffrage out of the Constitution, it is absurd to hope that we shall be able to command the support of three-fourths of the States to put it out when it is once in." This is excellent logic. It is one of those occasional emanations of sense which partially light up the deep darkness of political folly into which that party has fallen. The World continues the argument in so forcible and striking a manner, that we present more of it:

> For the Democrats to get negro suffrage out of the Constitution after it is once ratified, will require that the party shall have two-thirds of the members of both branches of Congress, and three-fourths of the Legislatures of the States. We shall never acquire these majorities on that issue. The only effect of continuing to agitate the subject would be to keep us in a perpetual minority. By skillful management the negro vote may be divided and nullified; and when it has become certain that the negroes will all vote, it would be political idiocy to drive them all into the ranks of the opposition.

This, it is clear, is the only sensible course for Democrats to take. Even in Oregon there will be colored voters enough to make some impression in political contests. We can hardly doubt that when Democrats shall once discover that these colored people have votes, they will adopt the course suggested by the World, and try to get as many of those votes as possible. But won't it be a delightful spectacle to the Rev. Joseph Smith, who last year told [illegible] tale about having seen "wretched [illegible]" at [illegible] holding a political meeting around the statue of Washington, warmly shaking his "colored fellow citizen" by the hand, and inquiring with affectionate regard about the welfare of his family! And then when the reverend gentleman offers to place within the colored [illegible] hand the straight Democratic ticket, if the latter fails to [illegible] the political damnation from his presence, he will show less [illegible] than one would have a right to look for in a [illegible].

The Spanish Gunboats.

There is so much of the sensational in the manner in which New York "specials" present intelligence relative to Cuban affairs that it is not easy to decide how much credence should be given to the report, [illegible] on their authority, that the administration has determined to take such a course with the Spanish gunboats as will be tantamount to a recognition of Cuban belligerency. But if such a course should be taken, we should have little apprehension that it would lead to serious consequences with Spain. That country, if it possessed any spirit or power would long ago have crushed the feeble revolt in Cuba. In Spain each day brings its own trouble. The candidates for the throne have danced past each other like the figures in a magic lantern. But the two great obstacles, the [illegible] and the hostility of the church, never move. Spain has no one competent to guide her, and she is afraid of herself. She is not in a condition to do us any harm; but we should not take advantage of her feebleness to do her an injustice. The course of our Government should be decided upon with a view to actual condition of [illegible] between Spain and her revolted colony. The Cubans have no "claim" on the United States for aid. Supposing, as an Eastern journal says, that "our Government had decided to 'recognize' Cuba, to whom would it send its representatives? Where is the head of the Cuban Government?—what capital has he chosen, and how is the agent to reach him? The United States agent would be compelled to ride, at the risk of his life, in search of a General and a moving camp. He would carry 'recognition' of a Government which he could not find. Instead of making absurd demands on the United States, the Cubans ought to work out their own deliverance. If they desire it so much as we are told they do, they could certainly gain it, and within three months." For Spain has made none but the most feeble efforts to subdue the rebellion. If the Cubans want help they should show first an earnest and general disposition to help themselves; and this they have not done.

Minority Representation.

Something has been said of late of Medill's plan for securing the representation of minority parties. Medill is one of the editors of the Chicago Tribune. The Sacramento Union states his plan, which is summarized as follows: The plan goes to the ballot, which it would have so regulated that the voter may name on his ticket the alternate favored by him as his representative in the event his first choice shall be defeated—thus; A, B and C, Republicans, and D, E, and F, Democrats, make up the two party tickets for the Assembly. Medill would allow the Democrats to vote for their own man as first choice, and for either one of the three other as second choice. In the event all the Democratic candidates should be defeated and one of the Republicans should obtain most of the votes of the Democrats as second choice, he would have him allowed more votes in the Assembly than the other two Republican Assemblymen who received not so many votes. If the minimum required to elect is 1,000 votes, he who receives that shall have one vote in the Assembly, while he who receives 1,500 shall be allowed a vote and a half, and he who receives 2,000 two votes on any important legislative bill. It is claimed with much plausibility that this rule would greatly improve the quality of nominations, do away with frauds in elections and corruption in Conventions, and secure a proportionate voice of the minority party in legislative representation. It is favored by the Chicago Times, a leading Democratic paper, and we observed by recent dispatches that it obtained a favorable notice from the New York World. It is not improbable that if the plan is adopted into the new Constitution of Illinois it may meet with favor in other States, and finally obtain in the election of members of Congress.

In General.

We have heard a great deal about the corruption of the lobby at Washington, and Democratic papers have descanted at great length on the weakness and wickedness of Republican Congressmen in yielding to lobby influences. But we notice now that J. H. Slater, one of the Seymour electors for this State, proposes to go to Washington this winter to lobby for certain measures. When he comes back he will doubtless be prepared to tell terrible stories of "corrupt Radical Congressmen" whom he induced for a song to support his measures.

The Herald no doubt supposes it makes a strong point against the Republican party when, in speaking of the fact that Kossuth county, Iowa, throws a unanimous Republican vote, and that no one has ever been convicted of crime in the county, it says: "It is not astonishing to us that in such a strong Radical county criminals of all sorts should enjoy immunity." The Herald evidently has in view the tactics of its own party in Clackamas county, Oregon, and argues therefrom that Republicans in Kossuth county, Iowa, pursue a similar policy. But such a supposition is a very bald non sequitur.

The Eugene Guard can't give Pendleton up. It sneers in this way at its weak brethren who are inclined to surrender the favorite of its party: "Every so-called Democratic paper which has for some time given evidence of a bad case of softening of the political brain, is convinced that Mr. Pendleton's failure to rub out all the Mongrel majority of Ohio, has destroyed his last chance for the Presidency. These are straws, but they show how the wind wants to blow. Those 'Democrats' (what Democrats?) who think Pendleton has no chance, seem to have a very pressing faith that some such man as Chase is 'coming.'" Yes; and some such man is coming. The bondholding Democracy will have no more fooling with repudiation candidates. They will nominate some man for President who believes in paying the claims of the "bloated bondholders," and then buy up or whip in the rank and file of the party. The Oregon Democracy are not of sufficient consequence to be bought up; so they will be whipped in.

Talking of specie payments recently, the President is reported to have said that he thought that a leap to specie payments at this time would prove disastrous, and that in his opinion, the best way was to go on with the gradual reduction of the debt until such time as gold should drop sufficiently to enable specie payments to be resumed with less difficulty. This is a plain, practical view of the matter, and at the same time it is the only view which is consistent with the existing state of things. The improvement of our credit during the past year has been very great. Our bonds are still going up steadily. In January last they were quoted at 75; now they are 88. Gold has also fallen greatly. Just before Grant's election it was quoted at 145; now it is quoted at 126 and 127. Let this improvement in our credit go on, and we shall be able at no distant day to resume specie payments. The question will solve itself, and the country will get back to a coin circulating medium without much inconvenience.

Judge Noggle, of Idaho, in his recent opinion on the Chinese tax case in that Territory, condemned the laws imposing special taxes on these people, and added that "when the Burlingame treaty has been proclaimed and has become binding upon this government, of course the present infamous laws will be superseded thereby." This statement would seem to imply that until the Burlingame treaty is proclaimed, such laws have some foundation to stand upon. But such a position would be entirely erroneous. It does not require the ratification of that treaty to render such laws invalid. They are invalid now, and always have been so. They are in conflict with the Constitution itself; being in direct antagonism with the power of the Government to make treaties and regulate commerce. The ratification of the Burlingame treaty will add no new argument against them. That treaty, when proclaimed, will give the Chinese no new rights in the United States. These special tax laws are antagonistic to a great principle which inheres in the original structure of our Government, and no Court of any standing will allow them to be enforced.

The San Francisco Bulletin mentions it as a "California fault" that there is so great a disposition among the people of that State to change business and residence. Men don't stick to one profession or occupation, but change continually. They don't remain in one locality, but change from place to place so rapidly that they cannot thrive in any legitimate industry. Now this unsettled disposition which the Bulletin calls a "California fault" is not peculiar to California alone. The same thing may be witnessed in Oregon. This migratory disposition grows out of the circumstances under which the Pacific States were first settled. Men have been accustomed to pass hither and thither in search of "better diggings," and a report of a richer locality would set them all off in expectation of achieving great fortunes. A few have succeeded, but as a general rule those persons only have bettered their condition who have remained in one place and pursued one branch of business. The Bulletin correctly says that though complaint is made of hard times, but little of it comes from the industrious and frugal classes, who have attended closely to their occupations.

FRESHEST GLEANINGS.

General Ewell reports to the Tennessee branch of the Southern Historical Society that he has the records of the several commands he held during the war, with the reports of his subordinates, and letters from General R. E. Lee, General Joe Johnston and others, which will furnish many facts and incidents for a complete history of the war.

S. W. Davis, a poor book seller in Cincinnati, who several years ago assisted a comparative stranger out of some financial troubles, now finds himself the legatee of $2,000,000, the bequest of H. T. Hanley, of St. Louis, who turns out to be that stranger, who has never forgotten his obligations to the man who saved him from bankruptcy.

The Boston papers are exultant over the fact that during the month of October there arrived at that port, from foreign ports, no less than 267 vessels, of which thirteen were steamers and eleven ships, and that in ten months of 1869, ending with October, the foreign arrivals were 3,334 against 2,625 in the corresponding period of last year.

The manufacturers of Pittsburg claim the credit of supplying 65 per cent. of the various grades of steel turned out in the United States. The first essays at its production date forty years back, but according to the Pittsburg Commercial it is within the last eight years that the most remarkable progress has been made, which has placed the steel produced there on an equality with the best imported.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that the Red Stockings have, during the past season, played in fifty-seven match games and three games with picked nines—sixty in all—and have been victorious in every instance. They have traveled from Boston to San Francisco, and have encountered all the famous base ball clubs in the country, East, West, North and South, and now retire from the field with an unbroken record of victories—a record unexampled in the history of the game.

P. T. Barnum has contributed several thousand dollars to aid in defraying the expenses of celebrating the centenary of Universalism in America. The Rev. Mr. Murray first told us in 1770 that we are to be saved. It is proposed to invest a large sum of money in the celebration.

Some Facts and Figures.

WE, GENERAL AGENTS OF LIFE INSURANCE Companies doing business in this city, have had our attention called to some gross misstatements from the Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, in relation to the settlement of the Policy No. 13,054, which was held by the late A. C. R. Miller in that Company. We do not propose to submit to statements calculated to mislead the public about the operations of standard Companies doing business here, and therefore give the following statement, derived from an official letter written by the Actuary of the New England Life Insurance Company, which clearly proves that the Policy No. 13,054 would have been carried, not only to the date of Mr. Miller's death, but in any first class Company, for years, without any additional payment, and that in this instance, the "Massachusetts Lapse Law" had nothing to do with the payment of the claim, and that if Mr. Miller had not had money to his credit in the hands of the Company, in the shape of dividends, which he did not draw at the times they were declared, because the Company failed to apprise him that he had anything to his credit until January, 1869, and he had not paid his premium for 1869, his family would not have been paid the amount of the policy.

Mr. Miller did not, as the public are led to believe, allow his policy to lapse.

When he found that he had a surplus in the Company, which had been accumulating from dividends for several years, he concluded to allow that amount to be applied to the payment of his premiums until it was exhausted.

Condition of Policy 13,054, January 21st, 1869.

Credit:

By dividend in hands of Company for six years. $241 85
Interest overpaid.......... 29 27
$277 12
Add dividend for 1869, (estimated).......... 70 61
Total credit.......... $341 73

Debit:

To premium due Jan. 21, 1869—
Note premium.......... $51 50
Cash premium.......... 81 00
" Int. on notes.......... 30 23
$120 73

Leaving a balance to his credit at his death, from dividends, of.......... 221 00

Which, with the dividends accruing, would carry a similar policy, in any well established company, for several years without further cash payments.

Basis on which Policy No. 13,054 was settled:

Face of Policy.......... $5,000 00
Add cash to his credit at time of death.......... 221 00
Total.......... $5,221 00
Deduct notes given to Company for premiums.......... 570 50
Amount due on Policy at death.......... $4,650 50

REJOINDER.

TO THE PUBLIC:—Several Agents of Life Ins. Companies made a publication in reference to "Correspondence" had on the payment of Policy No. 13,054 to the widow of A. E. C. Miller, pronouncing the correspondence "gross misstatements."

The statement of those Agents who attack us, is as cool as it is incorrect. If they have a desire to give the public the "official letter" they refer to, they can have the use of it for publication. IT MAKES NO SUCH STATEMENTS AS THEY PRETEND TO QUOTE FROM IT. We have it on file and any gentleman who wishes can see it by calling at our office.

These agents of other companies further say: "When he (Miller) found that he had a surplus in the Company, which had been accumulating from dividends for several years, he concluded to allow that amount to be applied to the payment of his premiums until it was exhausted;" they then state:

"Face of Policy..........$5,000 00
Add cash to his Cr. at time of death. 221 00
$5,221 00
Deduct notes given to the Company.......... 570 50."

They thus in one place assert the Policy to have a surplus to its credit, but when they figure (figures tell the truth) they make the Policy in debt to the Company and deduct the indebtedness. They further say that the Policy "would have been carried not only to the date of Mr. Miller's death, but in any first class company for years without any additional payment," AND STILL THEY FIGURE IT ALL RIGHT TO DEDUCT $349 50 AFTER SOME SIX MONTHS AND PAY $4,650 50. If their statements be true the Company should have paid more than the face of the Policy.

We respectfully ask every citizen who holds a Policy in a company any of these gentlemen represent, to read it and see whether if he fails to pay his premium on the very day it falls due if it is not declared to be null and void; THERE IS NO SAVING MASSACHUSETTS CLAUSE IN IT. Mr. Miller's annual premium was $163. He paid the same half cash and half note. At the time of his death four and a part of the fifth notes had been cancelled by his dividends and returned to him; the Policy was indebted for the balance on notes and interest to 21st Jan 1869.......... $175 76
Premium due and NOT PAID on Jan. 21, 1869.. 163 00
Total charges.......... 338 76
Add interest from Jan. 21st to Aug. 2d.......... 10 74
Making Amount deducted from face of Policy.......... 349 50

In refutation of the statement made that 1,405 Policies "forfeited" in 1868, we refer to the same Commissioner Baines' last Report, schedule D.

The report says these Policies "Lapsed." They now come under the Massachusetts Lapse Laws, as did Mr. Miller's Policy, and any of them would be paid under similar circumstances by our Company.

We Forfeit Nothing!

MRS. MILLER AND HER CHILDREN GOT THE MONEY, not just dues under the Lapse Laws of Massachusetts. The statements made in "Correspondence" are true in letter and in spirit.

[illegible] CITY.—We learn that the dedication of the [illegible] Hall at Oregon City yesterday, was an occasion [illegible] to the members of the order in [illegible] and others present. About forty persons, [illegible] to the order, went up from Portland [illegible] Senator in the morning, and a large number [illegible] in the afternoon. Various other Lodges [illegible], including those at Salem, Dayton and [illegible]. The ceremony of dedication was beautiful [illegible] and was well conducted by Grand Master [illegible]. F. O. McCown, Esq., delivered the address [illegible] replete with interesting facts in relation to the order. The ladies of Oregon City presented [illegible] a splendid organ, thus signifying their [illegible] of the merits of Odd Fellowship as an [illegible] elevating and refining in its tendency. The [illegible] pleasantly situated, well built, finely furnished and [illegible] much credit upon the membership at Oregon [illegible].

[illegible] VALLEY.—A settler in this valley is now in [illegible] and furnishes the following facts in reference [illegible] which may be of interest to those who are looking [illegible] and open a farm: There is an area [illegible] in extent to accommodate one hundred [illegible] with good claims that is yet unoccupied [illegible] is but little prairie, and some hard labor [illegible] to bring the land into a good state of [illegible] the soil is very rich and would, doubtless [illegible]. At present the facilities for [illegible] are abundant, the grazing lands being ex[illegible] to feed the "cattle on a thousand hills" [illegible] of pure water, and the best of cedar and fir timber [illegible] and the sturdy hand of the pioneer is all that [illegible] this one of the finest parts of Western [illegible]. The [illegible] settlement is that at Oak Point, [illegible]

[illegible].—We have heard many inquiries late[illegible] ordinance providing for an addition to [illegible] of the City of Portland. It was intro[illegible] its second reading in the Common [illegible] ago. After this we believe it was [illegible] who have never brought it to [illegible]. In the mean time a great many citizens [illegible] number of policemen, even with their [illegible] insufficient in point of numbers. [illegible] and homes of the [illegible] city of the size of Portland can be found [illegible] the necessities for a full police force [illegible] one of such a limited number of [illegible]. The general expression of public [illegible] or a similar one ought to [illegible] that it will probably be brought again [illegible] Council at its next meeting.

THE WEST.

The San Jose, (Cal.) Mercury objects to lending State aid to assist immigration to the State. It says, further, that the State Immigration Society of California was originated with a view to assist speculators in the disposal of their lands.

Professor Whitney, of California, has brought to completion two volumes of Pacific Coast Ornithology in connection with which an Eastern publishing house proposes to issue a third volume of Eastern Ornithology: so that the whole three volumes when completed will be the standard American work on Ornithology for a long time to come.

While some workmen were excavating for a brick building at Helena, Montana, a few days ago, they found two gold bars of the value in coin of $500 each. How these "bricks" came there, or who was the original owner, is a mystery which remains to be solved. The question is, who will come forth to claim this gold which has been buried so long, or will the man who discovered it and "panned it out," be the rightful owner?

Says the Yreka Journal: The California and Oregon Railroad is progressing rapidly from Marysville northward, with 600 Chinamen at work. The grade is now completed from Marysville to the Feather River, and the bridge across that stream is nearly finished. Unless extraordinary stormy weather interferes, it is expected the road will be completed to Chico by New Year's. From thence it can be built to the mouth of Pitt River during the balance of the winter, and next summer proceed with the road to Shasta Valley and Yreka, so that it may be possible to have the road to this place in about a year, or two years at farthest.

George Alfred Townsend has evidently made up his mind to give his whole influence on the side of Capital removal. In his last letter to the Chicago Tribune he says;

"The only reason given for keeping the capital here is that the buildings are up. Therefore the United States must sit like Marius in the ruins of Carthage. The West owes it to itself to push this project with all its characteristic enthusiasm, just as by the huzzas of Illinois Abraham Lincoln was made President over Wm. H. Seward. How preposterous that nomination seemed to the East. There was Seward, as finished as the Capital, full of excellent traditions, and much money had been spent on him to make him fit for the place. Besides he was from the East and had all the modern improvements. But in a fit of belief that the West had some biography, the admirers of Mr. Lincoln absolutely moved the headship of the party from Auburn to Springfield, and the West produced the Great American. Who regrets it?"

A good illustration of the carelessness of emigrants to the far West, whether school keeps and where it keeps, is furnished by an Iowa paper. A train of emigrants from Minnesota was passing through Winterset, Iowa, on the way to Kansas, where it had been proposed to settle. In Winterset the travellers were informed that there had been a snow storm in Kansas, and not wishing to settle in so cold a country they decided to remain and and set up their penates there.

The subjoined correspondence sufficiently explains itself

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 15, 1869.

Messrs. Everson & Haines, General Agents New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston:

Gentlemen:—On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children, I beg to thank you, and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, for its munificence in paying me my terminated policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January, 1869, misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non-payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only), thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws, that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. I sincerely thank you again, gentlemen, for the payment, and also for your generous and gentlemanly assistance in the matter.

Respectfully, BETSEY MILLER.

PORTLAND, OREGON, Nov. 15, 1869.

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston.

Gentlemen:—Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family, left by an old resident of this city, who died Aug. 2, 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public:

A. E. C. Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No. 13,054, bearing date January 21, 1863. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2, 1869, over eighteen months after last payment of premium, yet your company working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts, pays the widow and orphans the whole policy, deducting only the premium due; while in all other companies doing business here, about which we know anything, the policy would long since have been forfeited.

By the New England Mutual, the widow has been paid $4,650 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity, this is Mutuality. We, therefore, commend this company to the public, as the only company that has no forfeitures.

We herewith inclose you the acknowledgments of the Widow.

Respectfully yours, etc.
CINCINNATI BILLS,
JACOB MAYER,
GEORGE H. FLANDERS,
M. SELLER.

OFFICE NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 16, 1869.

To Messrs. C. Bills, J. Myer, Geo. H. Flanders and M. Sellers:

Gentlemen:—Your favor of yesterday, inclosing "acknowledgments of Mrs. Miller," is at hand.

Please accept our thanks for the voluntary justice you have done the company we represent.

Yours Very Truly,
EVERSON & HAINES.

The True Medical Doctrine.

Nature, when struggling with disease, indicates unmistakably the kind of assistance she requires. In cases of nervous weakness and general debility, the feeble pulse, the lack-lustre eye, the attenuated frame, the flaccid muscles, the melancholy visage, inform us as plainly as if each organ had a tongue, that a medicated stimulant is needed. It does not require the aid of a medical education to understand this dumb appeal for new vigor from an exhausted system. Every reader of these lines can comprehend it just as well as the graduate of a physicians' college. Let not this demand of enfeebled nature be neglected. Respond to it promptly by commencing a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation uniting in their highest excellence, the properties of a Stimulant, an Invigorant and an Alterative. Before three days have elapsed from the taking of the first dose, a marked beneficial change will be manifest in the bodily and mental condition of the patient. The pulse will be stronger and more regular, the eye will begin to lose its dull expression, the muscular and nervous systems to recover their tension, and the spirits to improve. Persevere, and a complete revivification of the depressed animal and mental powers is certain. In cases of dyspepsia and biliousness, the same salutary results will be obtained. The appetite will revive, the sallowness of the skin disappear, and all the distressing symptoms which accompany disorders of the stomach and liver will rapidly subside. The cold of winter often intensifies these complaints by checking the perspiratory action, by which so much morbid matter is evaporated through the pores in milder weather, and therefore the BITTERS are especially useful to the dyspeptic and bilious at this season.

Six O'clock P. M.

The workshops open wide their doors
At six o'clock P. M.
And workmen issue forth by scores
At six o'clock P. M.;
Of all the minutes in a day,
Or hours that go to make the day,
There's none so welcome so they say,
As six o'clock P. M.

How many children show delight
At six o'clock P. M.
How many homes are rendered bright
At six o'clock P. M.
How many little happy feet
Go out into the busy street,
With joyous bounds papa to meet,
At six o'clock P. M.

Thousands of tables draped in white
At six o'clock P. M.,
The gathered families invite
At six o'clock P. M.,
And as they eat the frugal fare
They quite forget their toil and care,
And drop their heavy burdens there,
At six o'clock P. M.

Then blow, ye shrieking whistles, blow
At six o'clock P. M.
And let the weary toilers go
At six o'clock P. M.,
Ring out, releasing bells, ring out
And bid the welkin take the shout,
And echo it all round about,
"'Tis six o'clock P. M.'"

The Josh Billings Papers—Remarks.

When a man hain't got enny thing to say, then is a good time tew keep still—thare iz but few people who hav mist a good opportunity tew ventillate their opinions.

Just about az ceremonys creep into one end ov a church, piety creeps out ov the other.

Thoze who have the fewest failins see the fewest in others.

Pride iz az universal az hair on the head—sum are proud ov their virtews, sum ov their vices, and sum having neither themselves, brag on other people's.

Love looks thru a telescope; envy, thru a microscope.

An industrious man is seldom a bad man.

Men will believe their pashuns quicker than they will their consciences, and yet their pashuns are generally wrong and their consciences always right.

It ain't much trouble to bear the pain ov sumbody's elses lame back, but to have the lame back oneself ain't so stylish.

Despising fortune is not a sure way to gain her favors—pipe to her and she may dance to you.

Take awl the interest out ov this world and there wouldn't be friendship enough left for seed.

Sekrets are a burden, and that iz one reason why we are anxious to hav sumbody help us carry them.

I hev seen men so full of vanity that tha cood not endure the sight ov a peacock with his tale on parade.

The most excruciating bore I know is excessive politeness.

If I was called upon tew describe Eloquence, I should do it az I would a suit ov clothes, "ov suitable texture and a perfect fit."

Gravity iz no more an evidence ov wisdom than it iz ov ill natur.

The greater the man the less his virtues appear and the larger hiz faults.

Don't mistake vivacity for wit; thare iz just as much difference as thare is between lightning and a lightning bug.

No man ever undertook to alter his natur by sum [illegible] sum invenshun, ov his own but what he made a botch job uv it.

Religion in these days iz composed ov vanity and piety, and each man and woman iz a better judge ov the proportion than I am.

Lovers feed upon mysteries; but after they are married and the pork and beans are brought on, they have a fair chance to test the real qualities ov their appetights.

An insult tew one man iz an insult tew all, for it may be our turn next.

I don't know of enny thing that would use the whole ov us up more thoroughly than tew hav all our wishes gratified.

There is a kind of obstinacy—obstinacy in the right and obstinacy in the wrong; one is the strength ov a great mind and the other iz the strength ov a little one.

Laziness is like molasses, sweet and sticky.

I think a bear in hiz claws is preferable to to one with gloves on.

I kant tell now which I admire least, an old coquette, or a young prude.

Misanthropy don't pay—thare ain't no man livin whooze hate the world cares a cuss for.

Bad men kan be korreckted, but it don't pay to argue with a phool.

The man who haz never enjoyed the plezure ov bein forgiven haz mist one ov the greatest luxuries ov life.

I have seen coquetry that had no more malice in it than a ewe lamb frisking on the green.

When I come across a man who utters hiz opinions with immense deliberation, and after they are uttered they don't amount tew anything, I write him down, "mysterious phool."

The grate ov the world nowdaze is "What's trumps."

Love is a weakness, but it iz the same kind ov a weakness that repentance iz; both ov them are creditable to our natures.

A man iz his own best friend and worst enemy.

Jealousy iz one ov love's parasites.

We can endure vices in the young that we would despise in the old. (Pleaz make a note ov this old phellows.)

Friendship is like earthenware—if it iz broken it kan be mended; but love is like a mirror—once broken that ends it.

I don't know ov enny thing on the face ov this earth more remorseless than 7 per cent. interest.

There iz a great deal of difference between enduring misfortunes because we expect to and enduring them because we are obliged tew; one is patience, the other iz mere sullenness.

When I see an old man marry a young wife, I consider him starting out on a bust, for I am reminded ov the parable in the Bibel about new wine and old bottles.—New York Weekly.

FARRAGUT DOESN'T WANT A VESSEL TO MOVE BACKWARD.—The following anecdote of Admiral Farragut, we believe, has not appeared in print. While at New Orleans the officers of the Susquehanna, probably desirous of going North, represented the ship as greatly in need of repairs. A board of survey was appointed to examine and report on her condition. In due time the report was handed to the Admiral. After reading it over carefully he remarked: "I find nothing but generalities in this report; it does not appear that anything is broken in the machinery, or that anything is specially wrong about her." Then followed a dialogue between the Admiral and Engineer:

Admiral—What is the matter with the vessel?

Engineer—General debility, Sir.

Admiral—That's very definite; what do you mean by general debility?

Engineer—I mean that she is very weak in many of her parts, and not safe.

Admiral—Still quite definite; now, tell me is there anything wrong in her movements?

Engineer—Yes, Sir; She cannot be reversed; i. e., she cannot be managed in backing her, Sir.

Admiral—Is that the only thing wrong in her movements?

Engineer—Yes, Sir, I believe so.

Admiral—She will then answer my purpose, I do not want a vessel in my fleet to move backward.

He then tore the report into pieces. Nothing more was heard of the "debility" of the Susquehanna.

At a court ball in Berlin, Bismark was much pleased with the wife of a foreign diplomate who was present. With characteristic audacity the Count reached out his hand to pluck without leave a flower from the splendid bouquet which the lady carried. She rapped his knuckles with her fan saying, "Pardon, Monsieur le Compte, but that flower is not a German State, you must ask for it."

The Council Bluffs Nonpareil has the following: "From parties in from the Northwestern Road, on Wednesday morning we learn that in the neighborhood of Missouri Valley a freight train collided with another, and being pitched off the bank a fireman had his leg badly crushed. The whole affair is regarded in a serious light by those who saw it."

A Learned Judge's Opinion of Trial by Juries.

The evidence given by Baron Bramwell, before the Law Courts (Scotland) Commission as to trial by jury, is worth attention. In answer to the question, "In the majority of cases do you think that a trial before a jury or before a judge is to be preferred?" the learned judge answered:

"That is a very large question indeed. I think if I wanted the truth to be ascertained in a particular case, I should prefer an intelligent man who had been in the habit of exercising his faculties all his life on such questions to twelve men who had not been in the habit of exercising them, who might not be so intelligent men, who certainly have not been in the habit of exercising them together, farmers and others, who are very much fatigued from being taken and shut up in a hot court. If I wanted nothing but the truth in a particular case, I should prefer the verdict of the Judge, and it seems to me impossible to doubt that he is the preferable tribunal. When I was first made a Judge myself, I was very strongly in favor of trials being before a Judge, but I am afraid that the jury is a crutch that I have been leaning on for so long a time that I have now got used to it, and I don't think I am as good a judge of the question now as I was thirteen years ago. Moreover, there is no doubt that trial by jury popularizes the law. I remember a case before the House of Lords in which I was contending for a particular construction of a covenant, and my brother Willes was contending the other way, and the question put to me was, How was it possible that people should enter into so stringent a covenant as you contend for? I said, 'My Lords, they will trust to that true court of equity, a jury, which, disregarding men's bargains and the law, will decide what is right in spite of all you say to them.' And it is so, I don't say that they do not regard the law, for I believe they do; but every man must feel that, although he may have the law on his side, he is in some peril if the justice of the case is not with him also. I think it would be difficult to discriminate between civil and criminal cases, and in criminal cases I think it is better that the Judge should not be the man that would find the prisoner guilty. But it is a very large question; and I feel some hesitation in offering an opinion about it."

In answer to a further question, "You have had no cause from your great experience to be dissatisfied with jury trials?" the learned Baron answers: "No. There are cases in which juries go wrong; for instance, in an action against a railway company, they generally go wrong there; in actions for discharging a servant they generally go wrong; in actions by a tradesman against a gentleman, in questions whether articles supplied were necessary to an infant or wife, they are sure to go wrong; in actions as to malicious prosecution, they are always wrong. You may say to them, 'The question is not whether the man is innocent, but whether there is absence of reasonable cause and malice,' but in vain. They find for the innocent man."

Raising Potatoes from the Seed.

Seed potatoes and potato seed are two very different things. By seed potatoes is meant the tubers or potatoes reserved for propagation. These when planted, almost invariably reproduce their kind. We say "almost," as they, like other plants, will sometimes sport. Potato seed is that which is produced in the balls which are found upon the vines. From the seeds contained in these there is no probability of getting potatoes like the parent tuber, and each of the many seeds a ball contains may produce a widely differing one from that yielded by any other seed from the same ball, and in this manner new varieties are produced. The interest at present felt in potato culture has induced some to ask about raising potatoes from seed. It is an interesting but not a very encouraging field for experiment. Mr. Goodrich spent a lifetime at it, and produced, out of many thousands, but few that will have any permanent value. Still he did a good work; he produced some varieties which were hardy when there was a general failure, and he opened the way for others to improve upon his labors. We have now many fine potatoes, and one who raises from the seed must produce something better than any we now have to make his labor remunerative. Still we would not discourage experiments. We do not think that the quality of several of our potatoes can be excelled. We must now look in the direction of earliness and productiveness. The ball of the potato selected for seed should be from the earliest set upon the vines; this, when ripened as much as can be upon the stem, should be cut with a good portion of the vine, and placed in the sun to mature. Some direct when the ball is shriveled, to soak it in water and wash out the seeds, but we believe they will keep better within the ball. In Spring the seeds are to be sown and the plants treated precisely like tomato plants. Sow in a hot-bed, or in a box in the house, and, when large enough, transplant to other boxes, and, when the weather will allow, plant in good soil out of doors. The English authorities say that small tubers will be produced the first year, which are to be saved and planted the next year. This may be the case in the climate of England, but Mr. Bresee, who has had such remarkable success in producing new varieties, and whom we are indebted for the Early Rose, Bresee's Prolific, and King of the Earlies, informs us that he gets tubers the first season of sufficient size to enable him to judge of their quality. The potatoes which we have mentioned were started in a box in the house, planted out at the proper time, and selected the first season from a large number which were rejected.—American Agriculturist.

Spurgeon hits off the pedantry of those ministers who are continually tinkering the English version of the Scriptures in the pulpit; "It makes a man an inch and a half taller by a foolometer, if he everlastingly lets fall bits of Greek and Hebrew, and even tells the people the tense of the verb, and the case of the noun, as I have known some do. Those who have no learning usually make a point of displaying the pegs on which learning ought to hang. The whole process of interpretation is to be carried on in your study; you are not to show your congregation the process, but to give them the result; like a good cook, who would never think of bringing up dishes, and pans, and rolling-pin, and spice-box into the dinning-hall, but without ostentation, sends up the feast. Do not needlessly amend our authorized version. It is faulty in many places, but still it is a grand work, taking it for all in all, and it is unwise to be making every old lady distrust the only Bible she can get—or what is more likely, distrust you for falling out with her cherished treasure. Correct where correction must be for truth's sake, but never for the vainglorious display of your critical ability."

THE FOOTHILLS.—Mr. Swartz, who lives a few miles out of town, informs us that the snow in the Cascade Mountains already extends so far down the western slope, that last week he found it necessary to remove his cattle to the Valley farm. The stock have, during the summer, been pastured on Silver Creek, about twelve miles from Sublimity, in the district of country that was burned over some two years ago. The Swartzs and others took advantage of the deadening of so much timber to sow timothy grass seed, and the result is that they have some miles of excellent range. Grass grows as much as six feet high among the dead and fallen timber, and cattle have done well there ever since April. When the weather in the valleys is so hot and dry, cool mountain breezes keep the air cool and moist up there, and the light summer showers kept herbage green all through the heated term of last June and July, and in fact all the year round. If it were not for the snow, that would be an excellent place to look for a ranch, and even as it is, there are in the world many worse locations that are thickly settled.—Statesman.

The following conversation is reported to have taken place at Elmira, N. Y., the other day, between H. G. and the editor of the Advertiser.

Greeley—"I shall expect Chemung county to give a Republican majority this fall. Your paper can't have much influence if it can't control the vote of the county."

Editor of Advertiser—"Well, I don't know about that, but it will come as near controlling it as the Tribune does the vote of your county."

Greeley—"Umph, that is very good!"

DEMOCRATIC NEW YORK.—Affairs in Democratic New York are in a very pretty shape, according to the following from one of the city papers:

We drew attention yesterday to the Coroner's inquest on the death of a man named Archibald Douglas, who was shot by Thomas Jackson, a deputy of Sheriff O'Brien. We are glad to find that our cotemporaries are as much disinclined as ourselves to allow so great an outrage upon justice to escape public condemnation. It is inconceivable that a sham inquest like that presided over by Coroner Flynn can be all that is necessary to whitewash as clear a case of assassination as we were ever called upon to record. Douglas had not been the aggressor, and he was making all haste to get away from the scene of altercation when Jackson turned and shot him dead. Yet the jury found that "Jackson used the pistol partially in self-defence." What is the use of pretending to have any laws against murder? Is this man Jackson to be turned loose upon the community with license to perpetrate as many crimes as complete immunity from punishment may encourage? There is another of Sheriff O'Brien's deputies and friends, Real, a red hand ed murderer, successfully "dodging" the gallows. Several others of the same kidney have been convicted of various offenses. We had better have it properly understood at once that O'Brien is the Dictator over this community—that he has power to shield all offenders, and condone all transgression of the law.

HOAGLAND'S

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and it is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

BALSAMIC COMPOUND

THE GRAND DESIDERATUM OF THE AGE!

AMONG THE MOST PAINFUL AND TRYING ordeals to which the human frame is liable, are those engendered by affections of the organs of [illegible] resulting [illegible] the consequences being only [illegible] constitutional and [illegible] infirmities. Nothing tends more to impair vitality and undermine the very foundation of life than the [illegible] of such [illegible]. [illegible] the malady becomes [illegible] in the latter, the [illegible] weakened [illegible] destroyed by the [illegible] of powerful and deleterious medicines.

THE BALSAMIC COMPOUND, after a course of [illegible] experience [illegible] sufficiently established [illegible] a specific for those painful and widely spread diseases above referred to, [illegible] of the Urinary and Genital Organs.

As a Preventive of those deplorable [illegible] the Balsamic [illegible] will be unfailing in its efficacy.
